Growing and leading a business has always been a challenge. Today it is so more than ever. Change is constant, but the pace of change has been increasing rapidly in the last decades: new technologies, digitalization, globalization and demographic changes have a powerful impact on the way we work and live. People expect things to change rapidly. In order to succeed, your organization needs to recognize opportunities ahead of time, and accelerate the pace of change as well. The requirements are as enormous as they are diverse. You have to keep up with new technologies on the one hand and ensure that your employees are up to date on the other. So, how do the managers and leaders in your company encourage and foster change? Building trustful relationships, motivating your employees to continuously learn and develop their potential, are corner stones of an accelerated organizational pace of change. Authentic interest in their ideas, and input from every department on a frequent basis is crucial to continuous improvement on all levels.

Training Has To Be Worth Your Time and Effort

All our training course focus on your employees' specific needs. They may share with us what is particularly important to them, or share critical events they want to discuss before the training course. This allows us to respond to their needs effectively and to analyze critical issues from different perspectives in order to point out new alternatives for action.

Our methods are as diverse as the people and the world we live in. We use a holistic, action-oriented approach that focuses on the learners, not the trainers. LearnInProgress® was developed at the University of Bologna with the aim of helping adults to recognize and build on their individual skills according to their learning preferences and work styles.

In our action-oriented, experiential approach to learning, learners have a proactive role. After taking stock of the knowledge, the skills and the abilities that the individual already possesses. LearnInProgress® makes self-improvement easy and fun. Inner resistance and blockages can be avoided when learners focus on their strengths and abilities instead of on their gaps and deficiencies. The game-based Learning Approach for Adults", also enables a holistic experience and uses positive emotions for sustainable learning.

We help your managers and your employees to fulfill the diverse tasks they are faced with even more professionally than before. All our training courses, the open seminars, as well as the tailor-made in-house trainings and workshops provide targeted support for the development of your managers and employees. In the section "Training Courses" of our website you will find an overview of our offer. Please contact us for any further information, or in case that what you are looking for is not listed. We also develop trainings, workshops and learning games for adults according to your specific requirements.
